PARK HIGH SCHOOL

RACINE, WISCONSIN

Remember all of those long walks, rides or drives to school? If you came to school every day for three years, you traveled the distance from your house to Park 1,080 times. Depending on how far you live from school, you may have traveled a distance equal to a trip to California. You've seen the same landmarks over 1,000 times. What were they? What did they mean to you?

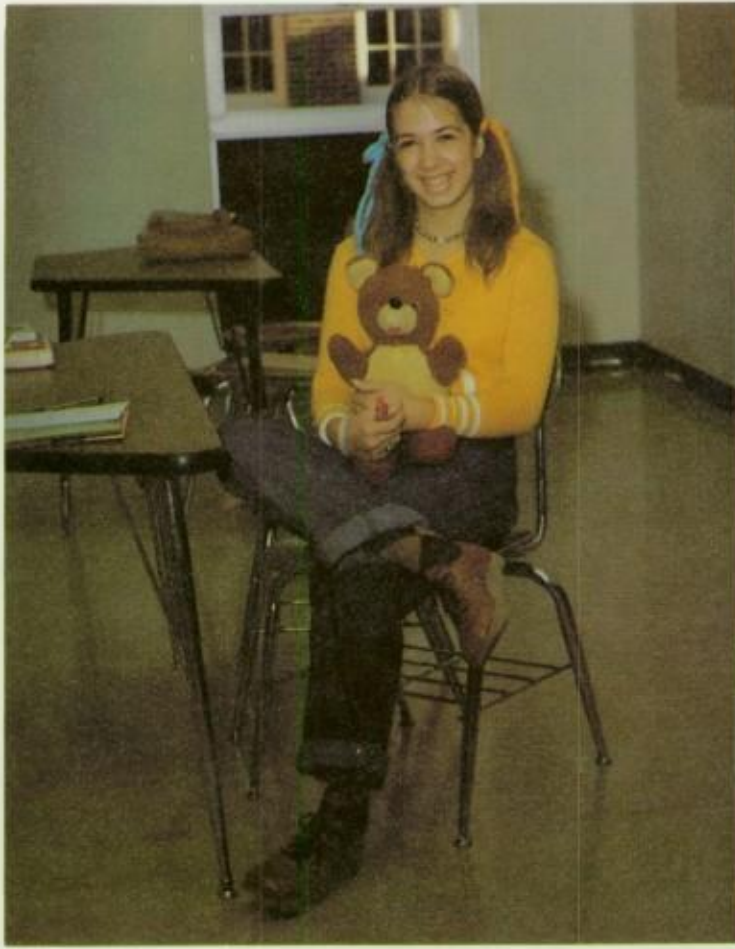

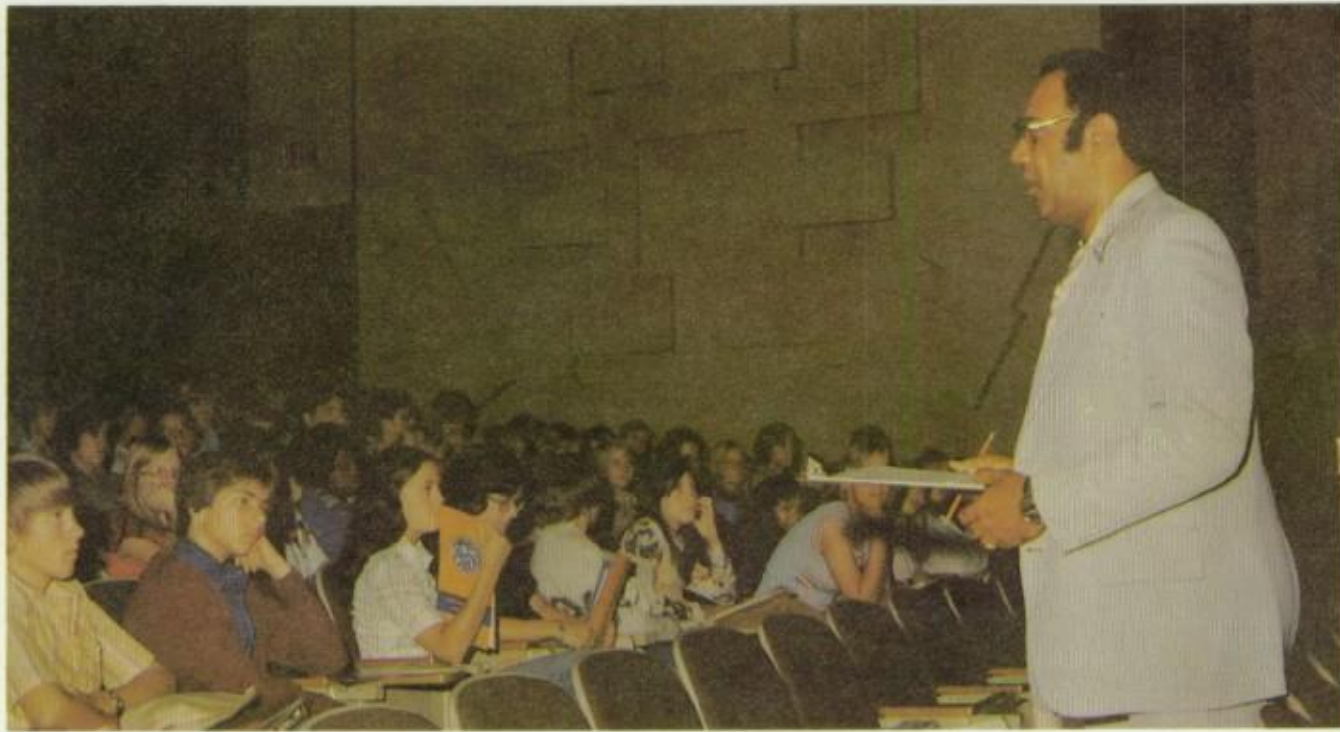

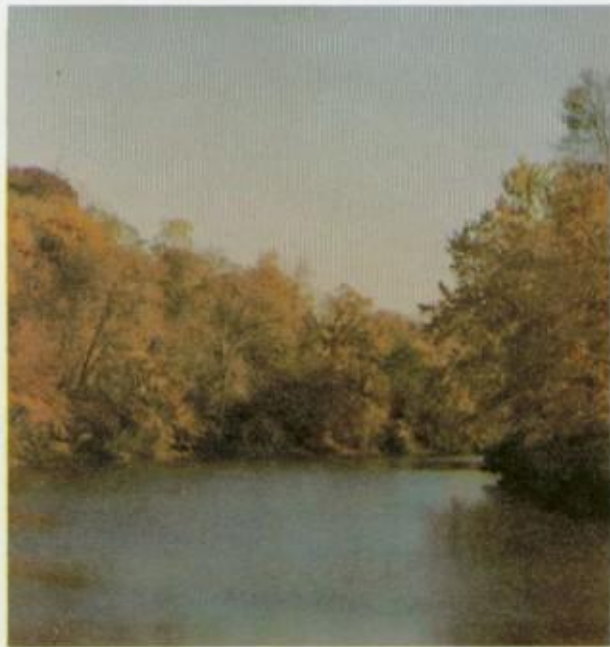

We've changed in our three years of high school. Our confusion as sophomores has changed to a sophisticated knowledge of how Park runs. In some cases we even ran things. Some changes were a shock: getting detention for being tardy. Others were more subtle like a new computerized attendance system, changes of season and a new mural in the library. How did these changes affect you? How did you change?

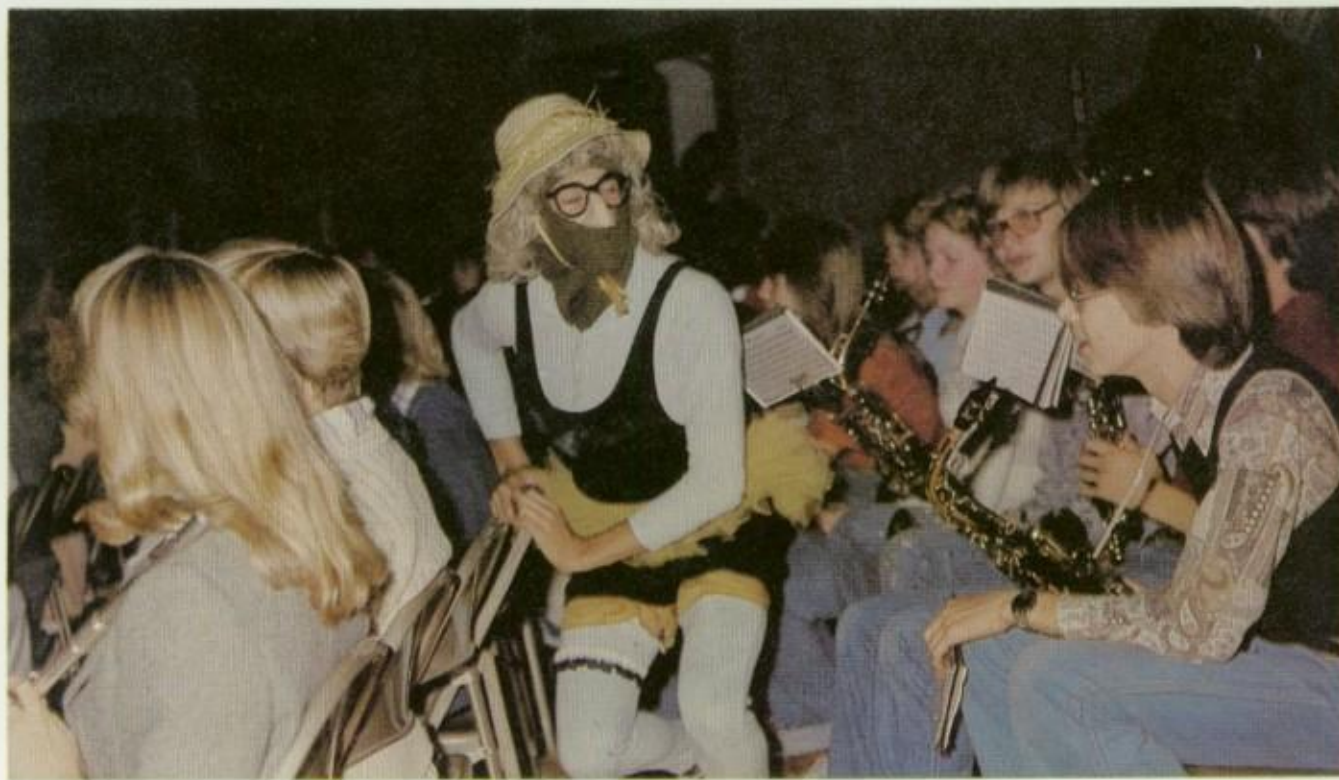

Remember the crazy-zany person that is kept inside of us all? It seems to surface at the most memorable times: while going to games and screaming until you lost your voice, going to dances and having fun even though the band was rotten. During Homecoming we broke out for an entire week of rowdiness. Remember how we could even turn an ordinary class day into a crazy experience?

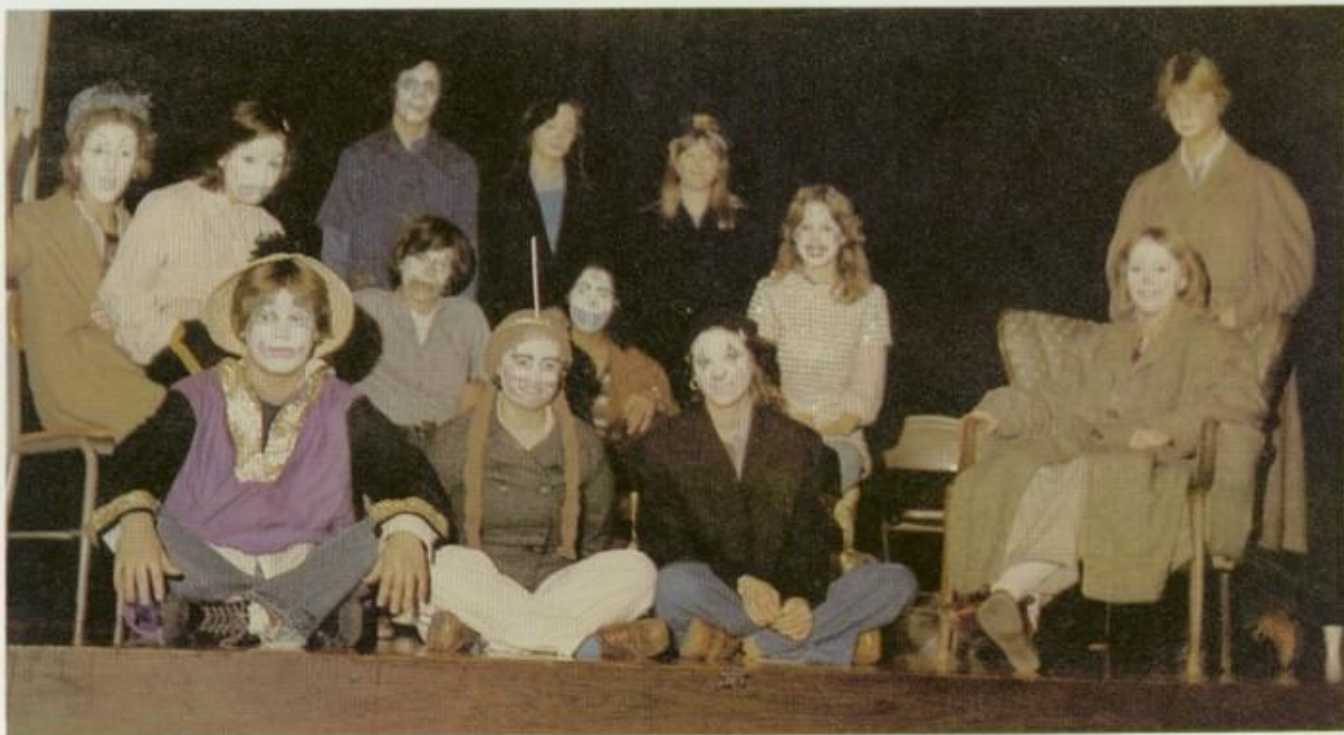

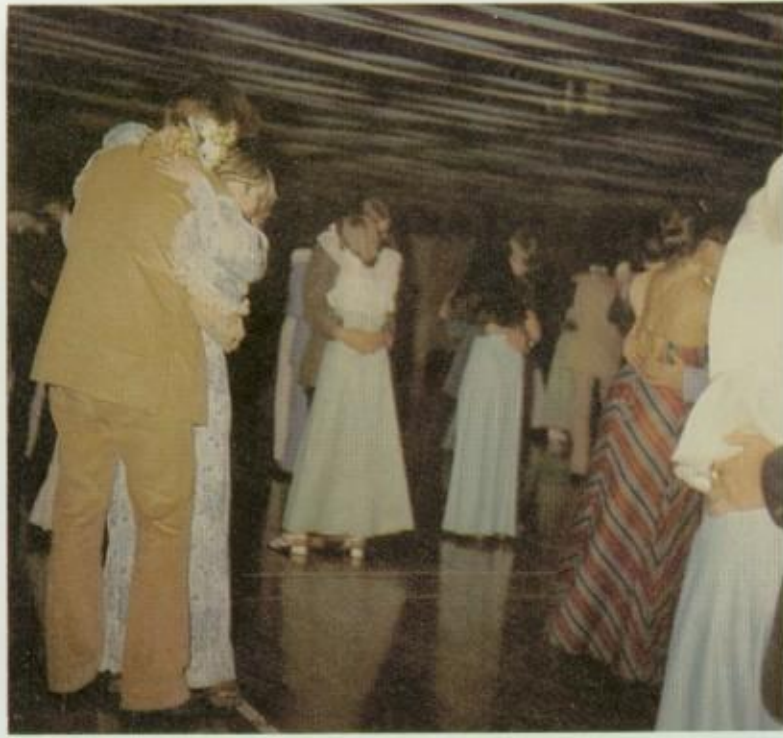

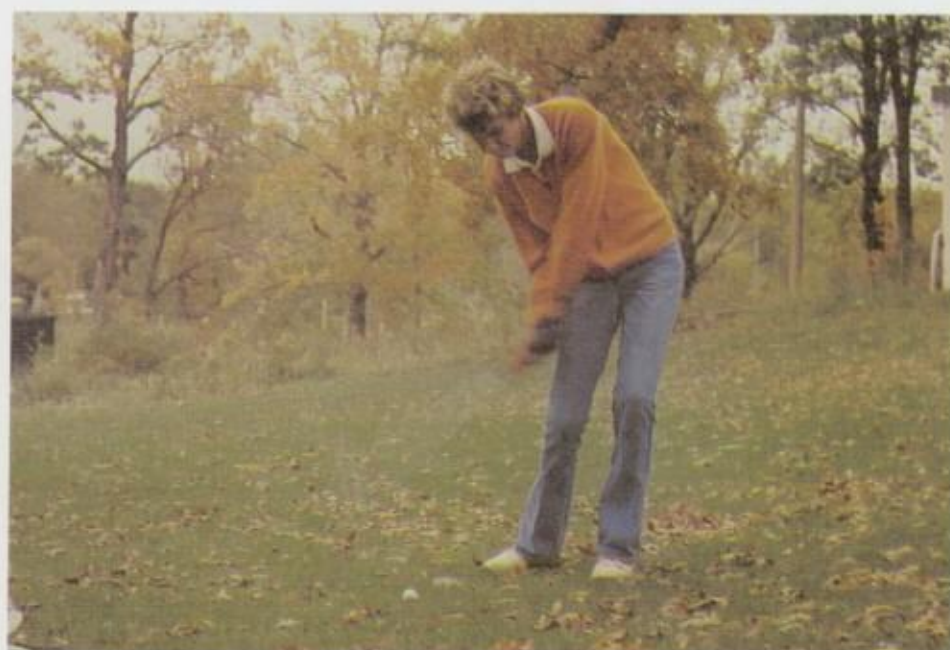

Not everything was fun and games. There were serious times: the crucial moment during a game, time alone to think, the opening of a play after months of rehearsals. Some remember performing in a concert after a hundred hours of practice, writing and rewriting a masterpiece only to have it hacked to death by a teacher, working many painstaking hours on an art project only to decide you didn't like it. We took ourselves seriously at times. Remember?

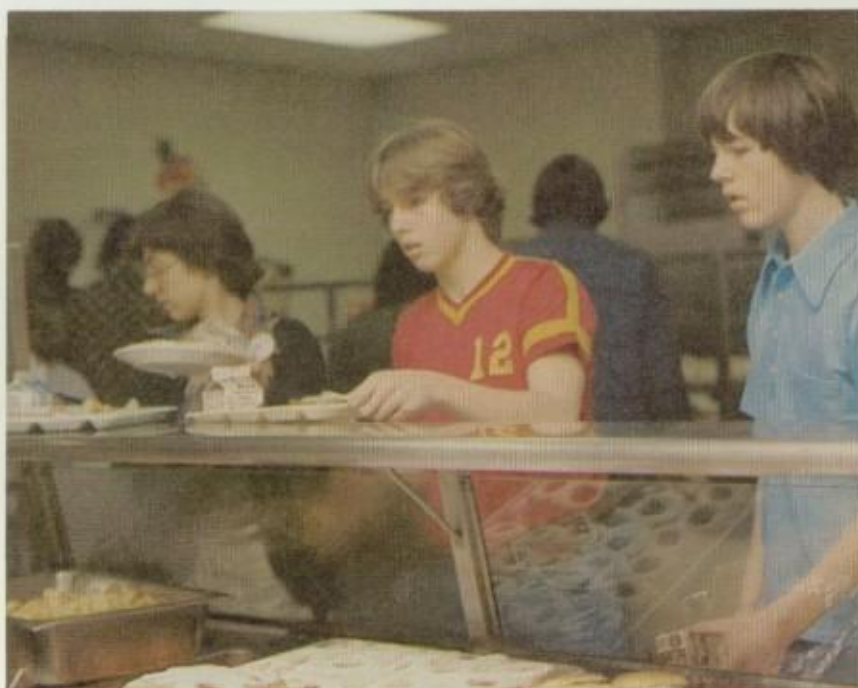

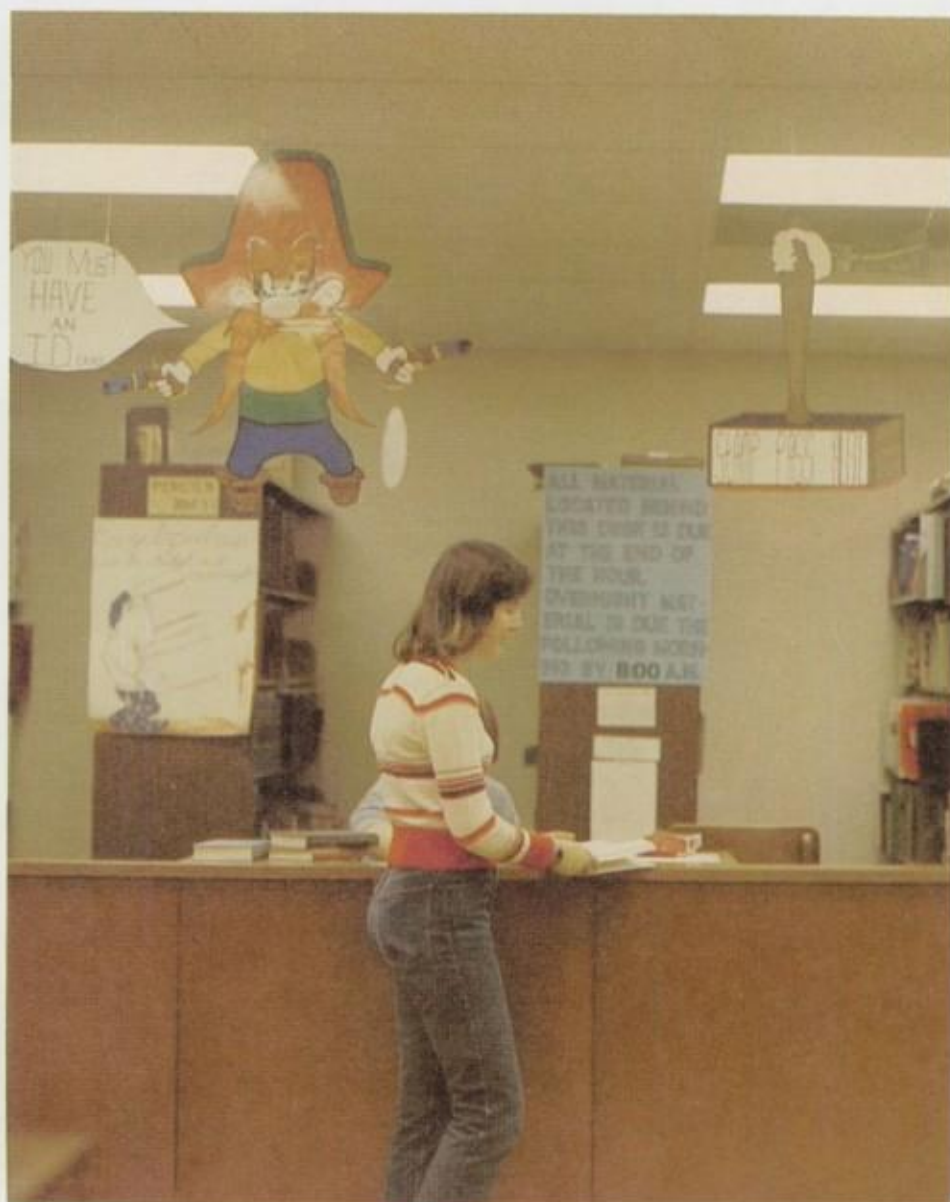

Remember all the familiar places? The cafeteria, the fieldhouse, your homeroom, the library and the offices. Some of us spent time in places that others never knew existed: the music rooms, the greenhouse, the publications office, the gymnastics room and many other obscure places unseen by many. Where did you spend most of your time?

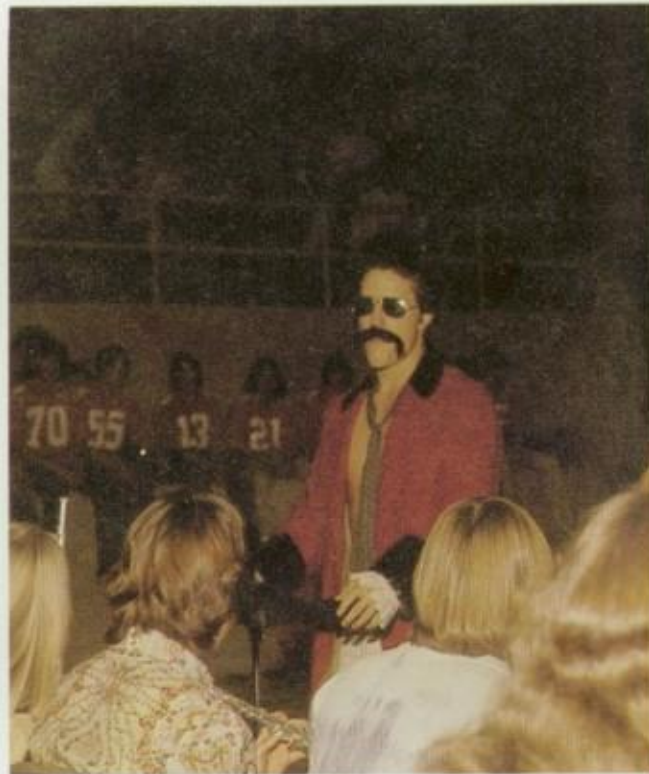

While we never actually spent the holidays in school, we did indulge in some pre-holiday activities and celebrating of our own. Our first celebration was Homecoming, a week of wild activities. At Thanksgiving the class councils and Key Club distributed food baskets. There were Christmas parties complete with Santa and presents and hall decorations. How do you remember the holidays?

Of course we went to class. In fact, most of us spent over 3,000 hours there. In theory you could condense your high school career into eighteen weeks, but that would mean going twenty-four hours a day without stopping for meals, sleep, part-time jobs and extra-curricular activities. Remember classes?

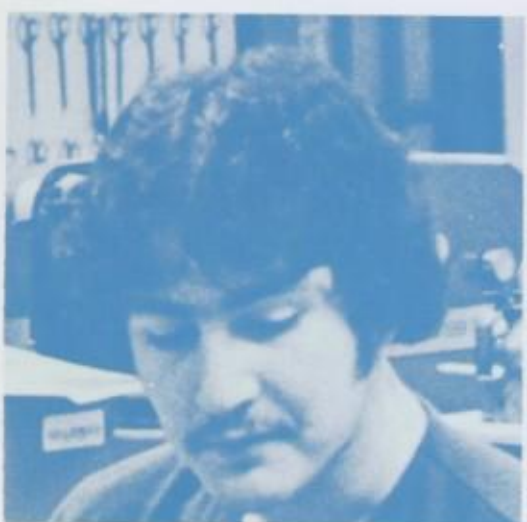

Most of all we will remember the people: those we went to classes with, ate lunch with, went to games with. We'll remember those who shared our years at Park High.

When work began on the 1978 Kipi, only Debbie Haag had a clear idea of her job. With help from Pam Perman, she planned to edit the Sports section. Others gradually found their own niches and responsibilities. Bill Stougaard, Sue Thronson, and Pete Harrits started work on the Supplement. Gary Lema ran errands and provided advertising staff transportation. Phil Rush found himself in charge of the ad pages. Kay Lipke and Kim Parrish did the Underclass pages and then went on to work on Activities and Index aided by Eydie Delvaux. As soon as Chris Rule finished the Senior section, she became General Planner and Organizer for the rest of the book. In December, Dave Chorbajian joined the staff and handled design, art type, and layout for cover, endsheets, division pages, staff section, records pages and became Chief Cropper and Checker of everything else. When Chad Johnson finished the introductory copy, he decided nothing was impossible so he took over the neglected job of Business Manager. Throughout the confusion, Kelli Gemmel typed. Kipi adviser, Judy Davies, and photography adviser, Jim Runge, yelled a lot and considered writing a book about all the things that should never have happened, but did. The efforts of the Kipi staff were supplemented by help from Bill Halliday, from Charles Studio who supplied group pictures, studio portraits and emergency help where attempts by student photographers left off. William Lizdas from the Racine Journal-Times provided the pictures of the muddy Homecoming game on pages 66 and 67. Thanks also go to many Park staff members who honored scribbled passes and excused harried students from classes before deadlines.
